

Svarbiausios publikacijos

1. Gutman A., Baginskas A., Hounsgaard J., Svirskiene N., Svirskis G. (2005) Semi-Quantitative theory of bistable dendrites with potential-dependent facilitation of inward current. In: Modeling in the neurosciences: from biological systems to neuromimetic robotics, (Reeke GN, Poznanski RR, Lindsay KA, Rosenberg JR, Sporns O, eds) pp 435–457 London: CRC Press.
2. Toledo-Rodriguez M., El Manirab A., Wallénb P., Svirskis G., Hounsgaard J. Cellular signalling properties in microcircuits. Trends Neurosci, 2005, 28, 534-540.
3. Kuras A., Baginskas A., Batuleviciene V. Non-NMDA and NMDA receptors are involved in suprathreshold excitation of network of frog tectal neurons by a single retinal ganglion cell. Neurosci Res, 2006, 54, 328-337.
4. Gutmaniene N. S., Svirskienė N., Svirskis G. Spikelet currents in frog tectal neurons with different firing patterns in vitro. Neurosci Lett, 2006, 406, 142-147.
5. Dodla R., Svirskis G., Rinzel J. Well-timed, brief inhibition can promote spiking: postinhibitory facilitation. J Neurophysiol, 2006, 95, 2664-2677.
6. Kuras A., Baginskas A., Batuleviciene V., Lamanuskas N. Single retinal changing contrast (3rd) detector elicits NMDA receptor response and higher activity level of frog tectum neuron network. Exp Brain Res, 2007, 179, 209-217.
7. Baginskas A., Kuras A. Single retinal ganglion cell evokes the activation of a L-type Ca²⁺-mediated slow inward current in frog tectal pear-shaped neurons. Neurosci Res, 2008, 60, 412-421.
8. Baginskas A., Kuras A. L-Type Ca²⁺ current in frog tectal recurrent neurons determines the NMDA receptor activation on efferent neuron. Exp Brain Res, 2009, 193, 509-517.
9. Baginskas A., Palani D., Chiu K., Raastad M. The H-current secures action potential transmission at high frequencies in rat cerebellar parallel fibers. Eur J Neurosci, 2009, 1, 87-96.
10. Svirskis G., Svirskiene N., Gutmaniene N. An eye-tectum preparation allowing routine whole-cell recordings of neuronal responses to visual stimuli in frog. J Neurosci Methods, 2009, 180, 22-28.
11. Palani D., Baginskas A., Raastad M. Bursts and hyperexcitability in non-myelinated axons of the rat hippocampus. Neurosci, 2010, 167, 1004-1013.
12. Jercog P.E., Svirskis G., Kotak V.C., Sanes D.H., Rinzel J. Asymmetric excitatory synaptic dynamics underlie interaural time difference processing in the auditory system. PLoS Biol, 2010, 8, e1000406.