Championing responsible publishing...

With regulatory and media attention on the rise, the CMRO series journals remain trustworthy titles through which to publish vital clinical and HE/OR research. The aim of the CMRO series is to serve the information needs of the clinical medicine community through a collaborative and transparent approach to publication.

We're a leader in transparent medical publishing. All journals in the CMRO series require and publish full author disclosures and acknowledgements of industry and medical writing assistance. In 2009, CMRO introduced a formal Transparency Policy that requires publication of additional financial disclosure information for peer reviewers, board members and editorial staff.

All three journals adhere to the the various good publishing practice guidelines and initiatives outlined by ICMJE, ISMPP, COPE, NLM organisations and the other organizations that encourage transparency and the disclosure of relevant financial relationships.

TRANSPARENCY TIMELINE

January 2003 – CMRO publishes the original “Good publication practice for pharmaceutical companies (GPP)”

June 2008 – CMRO publishes “Trial registration and results disclosure: impact of US legislation on sponsors, investigators, and medical journal editors”, by L. Hirsch, then ISMPP President

February 2009 – CMRO publishes “Good publication practice guidelines for medical communications agencies: a MedComm perspective” by Bareket-Samish, et al

June 2009 – CMRO, with its formal Transparency Policy, goes above and beyond the normal medical publishing standards by publishing full disclosures on all authors, peer reviewers, board members and editorial staff

January 2010 – All of Informa Healthcare’s 170 journals accepted for membership by the COPE

June 2010 – CMRO publishes the Medical Publishing Insights and Practices (MPIP) Initiative’s Authors’ Submission Toolkit

Autumn 2010 – JDA launched for publication of all clinical trial results, including incomplete, inconclusive, null and negative research

June 2011 – CMRO publishes a systematic, controlled study by K Woolley et al on healthcare publications retracted because of misconduct

Spring 2012 – Publication of null/confirmatory/inconclusive results begins to take off in JDA, with six papers published online

CMRO has published many other critical industry-related papers, all of which are freely accessible at the Open*CMRO* section of our website, www.cmrojournal.com.
