

RSC Gold

Want access to full content from the world's leading chemistry society?

Including regular new material and an Archive dating back to 1841?

Plus voucher codes to publish Open Access (OA) free of charge?

RSC Gold is the Royal Society of Chemistry's premium package comprising 41 international journals, databases and magazines that will meet the needs of all your end-users. And the accompanying Gold for Gold OA voucher codes ensure maximum visibility for your institution's quality research.

Caltech's RSC Gold package subscription has been a very welcome development ... I am very appreciative of the general excellence of articles in the RSC research journals, evidenced by strong impact factors and increases in local download statistics.

Good company

All of the world's top ten universities subscribe to RSC Gold, including the California Institute of Technology (US), University of Oxford (UK) and MIT (US). All benefit from our extensive range of authoritative chemical sciences resources – 34% of our journals have an impact factor above 5.

*The Times Higher Education top 200 world rankings 2013 – 2014 Data based on 2012 Journal Citation Reports 2013

We're growing. RSC Gold subscribers can draw inspiration from more than 27,000 articles published in 2013 – that's almost 4 times as many articles as we delivered in 2008.

Authors and Editorial Boards from more than 90 countries contribute to our content, ensuring a truly global perspective

RSC Gold is:

- Balanced and complete connecting your researchers to all key content within the chemical sciences spectrum
- Ever-evolving constantly upgrading and expanding with new journals and materials added annually, keeping your users up to date with front-line research
- Flexible
we offer tiered pricing options based on your institution's size and scope, no matter how big or small

Meeting your needs

RSC Gold subscribers have access to content consistently growing in quantity and quality. The number of articles published in our journals has increased by 16% this year, whilst our exceptional standards are reinforced by high citations. Of the top 20 journals in the multidisciplinary chemistry category, six are published by us – that's more than any other publisher.

16 new journals have been added to RSC Gold on publication since 2008. These include:

The Gold for Gold initiative is a great opportunity to introduce the Open Access Road to our researchers in chemistry.
